Excerpt: . . . to any special study, than in four hours at a dull and improper season. I would also give the same advice, if some vain, or wortMess, or foolish idea, will crowd itself into your thoughts; and if you find that all your labour and wrestling cannot defend yourself from it, then divert the importunity of that which offends you by turning your thoughts to some entertaining subject, that may amuse you a little, and draw you off from the troublesome and imposing guest; and many a time also in such a case, when the impertinent and intruding ideas would divert from present duty, devotion and prayer have been very successful to overcome such obstinate troublers of the peace and profit of the soul. If the natural genius and temper be too volatile, JicMe, and wandering, such persons ought in a more especial manner to...
